PINCHOT SENDS MYSTERY LETTER WITH CERTIFICATE

Not to Be Made Public Until Court Disposes of Davis' Case

REQUEST IS QUALIFIED

Credentials of Senator Laid Before Senate By Curtis

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 3.—The election certificate of Senator James J. Davis, Republican of Pennsylvania, was received by the Senate today from Governor Gifford Pinchot with a mysterious sealed letter accompanying it. Pinchot requested the letter be not opened or made public until the Federal court makes final disposition of the criminal case pending against Davis and involving charges of illegal promoting of a lottery.

Pinchot qualified his request concerning the letter by saying the Senate "could open it whenever it sees fit."

The credentials of Davis, duly sealed and certified by Pinchot, were laid before the Senate by Vice-President Curtis.

Davis was indicted by a New York Federal Grand Jury following an investigation by the Department of Justice into lotteries asserted to have been sponsored by the Loyal Order of Moose of which the Keystone senator was the head. Brought to trial on the charges, the case resulted in a mistrial because of the disqualification of a juror. The charges are still pending.

Several years ago Governor Pinchot gave an extra-ordinary certificate concerning William S. Vane's election to the Senate and Vane was never seated. Pinchot's action in the Davis case paved the way for a contest over his being allowed to take the oath of office along with other senators tomorrow.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, Democratic leader, immediately obtained possession of the letter of instructions accompanying Pinchot's sealed document. After studying it, Robinson declared he would ask the Vice-President to open the letter at the first opportunity. "I cannot say whether it will be made public or not," he added.

Wife Believes Moore Has Ended His Life

Police are still making every effort to locate Norman H. Moore, Langhorne Manor Justice of the Peace, who disappeared Wednesday. It is now feared that he has ended his life.

That fear was voiced by his wife, Mrs. Anne Moore, at their home in Langhorne Manor after she had heard no word from her missing husband since Wednesday.

Her last communication from him was a letter, postmarked 3.30 p. m., Wednesday in Philadelphia. This accompanied various of his personal belongings.

His disappearance followed his conviction on Tuesday in the Bucks county court on charges of malicious mischief and forcible entry. Sentence was deferred by Judge Calvin Boyer.

The trial resulted from a New Year's raid on the Campus Inn, in Langhorne, in which the justice of the peace assisted the police. Following the raid he was accused of breaking into the nearby apartment of a waitress at the inn. Moore asserted the charges were a "frame-up."

After waiting vainly for some fresh communication from her husband, Mrs. Moore said:

"The tone of his letter to me and the fact that he sent me his personal property for keeping, together with the fact that he had too much sense to make a fool of himself by starting this terrible thing without being in earnest about it, makes me believe he has killed himself."

In the letter to his wife, received on Wednesday, Moore was said to have written:

"What I am going to do is the best way out for you and the children."

His wife last saw him when he left home to drive their two children to school Wednesday morning. His car was later found abandoned.

LADIES' NIGHT

The Brotherhood of First Baptist Church will observe a Ladies' Night, Monday, at eight p. m., when a dramatic four-reel film, "George Washington, His Life and Times," will be shown by courtesy of Philadelphia Electric Company. Patriotic musical accompaniment will be a feature. This picture will be followed by a comedy. The patriotic film was made by the U. S. Government in commemoration of the 200th anniversary of the birth of the first president. There will be no admission charge.

VISITING

EIGHT FOUND GUILTY
Clearfield, Mar. 3.—Detective J. J. Devine, of Johnstown, and seven co-defendants today were found guilty by a jury in the abduction and detention of Garrett Schenck, of Hopewell, N. J., fish peddler, in an extra-legal effort to solve the baby Lindbergh kidnapping mystery. Devine and three other defendants were found guilty of kidnapping and conspiracy. The remaining four were convicted on the conspiracy count alone. Bail was doubled in all instances immediately when the sealed verdict, reached last night by the jury, was opened when Court convened today. Imposition of sentence was withheld pending arguments on a motion for a new trial which was expected to be filed at once.

TO ACKNOWLEDGE KLINE
Pittsburgh, Mar. 3.—City Comptroller James P. Kerr today announced he will approve payroll warrants bearing the signature of Mayor Charles H. Kline. Kerr said he was convinced Mayor Kline had the right to perform as Mayor and that he would further authorize payment of salaries of two thousand city employees whose checks have been held up.

"GAS" HEARING TUESDAY
Washington, D. C., Mar. 3.—Hearing into the financial set-up of the United Gas Improvement Company and its subsidiaries demanded in a resolution by the late Senator Walsh, Democrat of Montana, will open on Tuesday before the Federal Trade Commission. The company serves electric light and gas to territories comprising approximately five million population. Its chief electrical office is confined to Philadelphia, southeastern Pennsylvania, Delaware and Connecticut.

Phila., Mar. 3.—Almost 200 policemen in uniforms and plain clothes and a host of secret service operatives and detectives guarded the special train of President-elect Roosevelt when it made a brief stop here last night en route to Washington for the inauguration.

TELLS ROTARIANS MORE ABOUT OLD HOMES HERE

Doron Green, Local Historian, Gives Second Installment of Address

IS IN THREE PARTS

Doron Green, Bristol's historian, gave the second installment of his lecture, "Old Homes on Radcliffe Street," to members of the Rotary Club at their regular weekly luncheon in the Elks' Home yesterday.

The lecture requires 1½ hours to deliver, and Mr. Green has divided it into three half-hour talks. About a month ago he gave the first installment to the Rotary Club, and upon invitation, returned for the second installment yesterday.

Mr. Green's remarks yesterday centered around the history of several old structures, namely, those occupied by Armand Morris, Lewis C. Spring, Sisters of St. Mark's Church, Stanford K. Runyan, James Blanche, Farmers National Bank, Joseph R. Grundy; the old dwelling which occupied the present site of the homes of Walter F. Leedom and the late Dr. Howard Pursell; and the Keene home.

Among the many distinguished, and notable citizens, who have lived upon the street in years gone by, and to whom Mr. Green paid tribute in his speech, were: John Reed, who conducted a shipbuilding industry, south of Mill street, on the shore of Mill Creek; Thomas Cooper, the great English actor; Lucius H. Scott, who succeeded Thomas Cooper to the ownership of the Morris home; Augustus Cladius, the German Consul; Sarah Lukens Keene and John Hare Powell; Robert Beatty, who was cashier of the Farmers National Bank for 50 years; (Continued on Page 4)

Widow of Charles Guyon Dies After Long Illness
On Monday at two p. m. funeral service for the late Mary E. Guyon, widow of Charles M. Guyon, who died here yesterday, will be held from the home of the daughter of the deceased, Mrs. Viola Brodie, 271 Monroe street. The Rev. S. Brooks Knowlton, pastor of Bristol Presbyterian Church, will conduct the service. Burial in Bristol Cemetery will be in charge of the H. S. Rue Estate, undertakers. Friends may call at the Brodie home Sunday evening.

The deceased had been ill for the past one and one-half years. She is survived by the one daughter, and a grandson, Charles Brodie.

EVEN TREES, FLOWERS BOAST BLUEST OF BLOOD

Each Bush, Small Tree and Plant Marked On The Kaiser Estate

TO GIVE PARK TO TOWN

(This is the fourth of a series of six articles by Edward Hunter, roving staff correspondent of International News Service, describing the former Kaiser of Germany as he is today.)

By Edward Hunter
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
DOORN, Holland, Mar. 3.—The first signpost seen by the visitor to Doorn on his arrival is that of the "Kaiser Wilhelm Rosarium," fronting the main street of this little village. The gates are locked, although Doorn residents say that the ex-kaiser on his seventieth birthday promised to present this small park to the village when he leaves Holland.

Now the Rosarium is going through the process of being made into a public museum. I toured the rosarium on this late winter day. The sap in all these plants must be of a distinctly blue variety, because a walk in the park is like reading a "Who's Who" of the German nobility.

A neat, permanent sign on a separate post is placed in front of each bush, small tree or plant. No, these signs do not tell what variety of flower is in back of it. Instead they give the name of the titled personage who presented the plant to the ex-kaiser.

Hundreds of these signposts are to be seen in this modestly-sized park. They are of metal so as to withstand the elements, and undoubtedly will last as long, if not outlive both plants and donors themselves.

Nothing was more representative of the spirit of Doorn Caste than this rosarium. In summer a bench is placed inside on an artificial slope for the ex-kaiser, composing a natural (Continued on page 4)

David Landreth Tells Of Baseball Experiences

At the meeting of the Exchange Club last evening, David Landreth, the club's president, gave his personal reminiscences of the growth and development of baseball in Bristol and his experiences in professional baseball.

He went back to the year 1893, when baseball had reached the zenith of its popularity in Bristol, and the baseball team of that year was the best the town ever had. He told of the organization of the Landreth's baseball team, which played in a field on the east side of Green Lane.

Mr. Landreth said he was interested in the organization of the Federal Professional League, which some years fought the National and American Leagues. His reminiscences of that period were not only interesting but were a revelation to his audience, as very few of those present know of his connection with professional baseball.

In closing he said he had been investigating the make-up of the "Athletics" and Philadelphia baseball teams, and would not be surprised if the championship of both the American and National Leagues would come to Philadelphia this year.

RECEIVE APPROPRIATION

Bristol Township school board has received its appropriation from the state for the last half of the school term. The board conducted the March meeting at the Maple Shade school house last evening.

BENSALEM WILL ENTER BUCKS CO. MEETS THIS YEAR

Reports of Standing Committees Heard at Board Meeting

THE TAX RATE IS SET

Schools Reported in Good Condition; Boilers Inspected

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Mar. 3.—Announcement was made at the meeting of directors of Bensalem Township school district, here, last evening, that students from the township public schools will again enter the athletic and scholastic meets of Bucks County Interscholastic Association this year.

The president, Charles V. Wenner, presided at the meeting, at which all members were present.

Reports of standing committees were heard; and the tax rate was set the same as last year. Activities committee reported regarding activities of the school and organizations connected with such. The board members expressed interest in legislation regarding the Edmunds Act, as this will affect the outlining of the budget for the township schools.

Building and grounds committee stated that the structures are in fine condition; and it was announced that representatives of an insurance company have inspected the school boilers and found them in good condition.

The state is now keeping some roads traversed by the buses clear of dirt which is dropped from trucks which are doing hauling in connection with the new highway. The board is still working to have Street Road underpass the new highway, and thus have a dangerous crossing eliminated for the school buses.

DEATH OF MORRISVILLE MAN IN TEXAS, MYSTERY

J. T. Antrobus, Ship Officer, Found in Cabin; Had Been Shot

BODY IS SENT HOME

MORRISVILLE, Mar. 3.—An attempt is being made by officers to solve the mystery of the death of John T. Antrobus, 45, Morrisville, in Port Arthur, Texas. The tragedy occurred Saturday.

The victim, first mate of the oil tanker Harvester, was found dead in his locked cabin aboard the craft, a bullet hole in his head. No gun was found in the room and the door key is reported missing.

"Hot Saturday" To Close At Grand Theatre Tonight

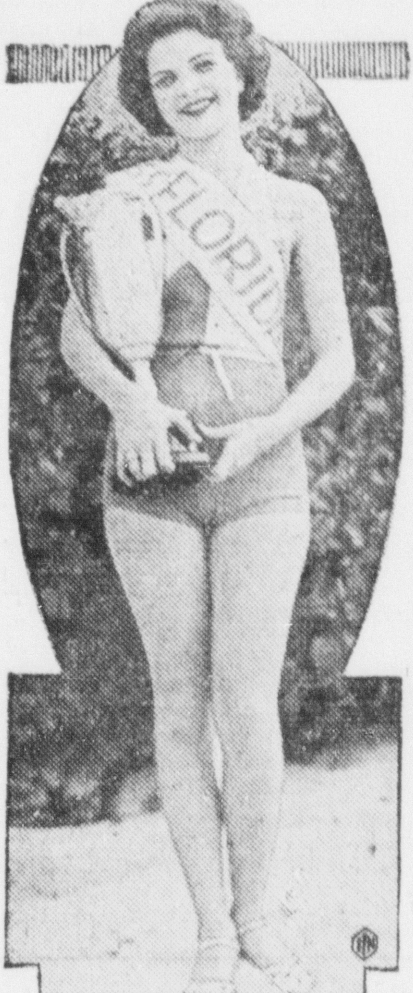

Nancy Carroll in "Hot Saturday" which closes at the Grand tonight is one of the modern pictures. Nancy Carroll is supported in this, her very latest and best success, by Gary Grant and that fast-rising young star, Randolph Scott.

"Hot Saturday" is a story of the young folks of today with their ambitious spirit for good times. Just as many of the things that are happening every day in real life, so goes this production. Give a girl a bad name and she will try to live up to it, and then when her cheating finds her out, she will seek to make marriage cover her sins.

It is lively with the happiness of young folks, and a tear for their shortsightedness and mistakes. Yet with it all we cannot help but love and sympathize with them. This story is presented and acted in a manner that will make an entertaining evening for all fortunate enough to see it.

Manager Edward Lynn of the Grand, expects a large attendance at both shows tonight. As an added touch to this picture will be a comedy with W. C. Fields, one of the very funniest comedians on the screen, in "That Fat Glass of Beer"; a cartoon comedy entitled, "The Coal Rush" and now events of the day.

Meet "Miss Florida"

Proudly holding the fruits of her pulchritude, Miss Jane Arrington is pictured after she had been selected as "Miss Florida" in the state-wide beauty contest held at Miami Beach, Fla., recently. Miss Arrington is a Winter resident of the sunshine State. She will probably be a contestant for the title of "Miss America" later in the year.

CROWELL RESIGNS AS MASTER OF POMONA

Compelled to Give Up Duties Because of Work on Farms

HEAR TALK ON POULTRY

FALLSINGTON, Mar. 3.—Efficient services of Ralph T. Crowell, of the Tyro Hall Grange, Buckingham, who for several years has served as master of Lower Bucks and Philadelphia Pomona Grange, No. 22, were lost by the latter organization at its meeting in the Fallsington Library, Wednesday, with the announcement of his resignation.

Mr. Crowell explained to the Patrons of Husbandry of lower Bucks and Philadelphia county that his work on his farm claims his attention and this makes it almost impossible to do justice to the organization.

B. Palmer Tomlinson, a member of Pineville Grange, who has occupied the position of overseer of Pomona, was elevated, as a result of the resignation of Mr. Crowell, to the office of master.

During the business session Pomona made quite emphatic its stand in reference to the proposed school code. The organization passed a resolution as being very much opposed to the proposed code as it is now being prepared. The grange feels that during the present financial condition there should be no change in the redistricting of the county and State without giving the patrons an opportunity to study any proposed plans and to have time to voice their sentiments.

One of the speakers was County Agent William F. Greenawalt, who in prefacing his remarks stated that this was the first time that he had addressed Lower Bucks Pomona.

Speaking of the present economic conditions, Mr. Greenawalt said he had read and heard much regarding the present situation. Many remedies, he said, had been offered, but no two persons agreed as to the proper remedy.

Mr. Greenawalt's opinion is that the people must help themselves by more economical production and better marketing. During the past few years, said Mr. Greenawalt, the poultry business has come to the fore. He explained that in order to be successful the poultryman must have good chicks and clean houses, litter, feed and management.

The county agent stated that there is a great deal of misunderstanding in reference to blood tests or accredited flocks. In Pennsylvania a blood tested flock implies that the flock is clean for two years, but in other states it implies that the flocks have merely been tested. Mr. Greenawalt urged the farmers to buy clean stock near at home so that they will be able to check up on the dealer and his equipment. (Continued on page 4)

Girl Sitting in Car Has Ankle Cut by Flying Glass

Anna Salerno, Main street, Tullytown, suffered a cut ankle last night in an automobile accident at Pond street and Jefferson avenue.

A car in which Miss Salerno was riding stopped for the traffic light at the street intersection. The automobile of Mari's Bakery passed on the wrong side and crashed into the other car, breaking a window. Flying glass cut Miss Salerno's ankle. She was treated at the Harriman Hospital.

Name Revenue Agent To Assist With Sales Tax

With the Emergency Relief Sales Tax expiring February 25th, the State Department of Revenue will make every effort possible to assist taxpayers in filling out return reports and paying the tax. The tax must be paid not later than April 1st.

For the accommodation of taxpayers, William Weaver, a Department Agent has been assigned to Bucks County and will be located in the office of John S. Roberts, Jr., borough engineer, Municipal Building, on Thursdays and Fridays, March 9-10, March 16-17, March 23-24, March 30-31. The Department Agents are being sent out to aid the taxpayer. They have been properly instructed in the rules of the Department for filing returns. They will accept returns and payment of tax. They are also empowered to take affidavits on returns without cost to the taxpayer.

The Department has mailed returns direct to many taxpayers but the non-receipt of a return form from the Department is no excuse for failure to file a return and pay the tax. Forms may be obtained from the Department at Harrisburg, or its District Office in Philadelphia. The Agent assigned to Bucks County will also have a limited supply of forms.

MILITARY FUNERAL FOR JOSEPH A. McILVAINE

Services to Be Held for Ex-Serviceman Who Died Yesterday

A NATIVE OF BRISTOL

Joseph A. McIlvaine died at his home, 337 Washington street, yesterday afternoon, in his 42nd year. He had been ill one year and was for a time a patient at the Veterans' Hospital in Philadelphia.

The deceased was a native of Bristol and was the son of the late John E. and Mary McIlvaine. He attended the Bristol schools and was a painter by trade.

Mr. McIlvaine was a brother of late Corporal Bernard J. McIlvaine, who was killed in France in 1919 in Roman Cemetery, 35 miles from Verdun.

Joseph McIlvaine enlisted at the outbreak of the war but got only as far as Fort Slocum where he was rejected because of his eyesight. Later he was taken to France with the second contingent in 1918. He went overseas with the 79th division after six weeks spent at Camp Meade. He returned home in May, 1919. He was a wagoner with the 311 Field Artillery. The deceased was a patient in the Veterans Hospital, Philadelphia, from January, 1930, to May, 1932, when he returned to his home here and where he had been confined to his bed almost continuously since that time.

The survivors are two sisters and a brother.

A military funeral will be held Monday morning at 10 o'clock at St. Mark's Church under the direction of Robert W. Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion. Burial will be in St. Mark's churchyard.

MERCHANTS IN BUCKS VICTIMS OF DIRECTORY TRIO

Group Arrested Here, Fined, and Ordered Out of Town

SOLD "ADS" FOR BOOK

In Proposed Bucks County Directory To Be Issued

A father and two sons were detained overnight for questioning by the police as the result of the men's solicitation for advertisements for a proposed Bucks County Directory.

The men gave their names and addresses as follows: Delmas McFadden, 25, 1621½ Fourth avenue, Beaver Falls; John McFadden, 52, same address, and Chester McFadden, 27, same address.

This morning the men were arrested, given a hearing and fined. They were ordered to leave Bucks County at once after depositing $23, all the money they had, with the authorities to be returned to those who had paid in advance for the advertisements.

A description of the trio and the manner of their solicitation was sent by teletype to five other counties where it is believed the same three carried on the same line of work. These counties included Washington, Mifflin, Blair, Huntingdon and Lawrence.

The room occupied by the three in Morrisville was searched but nothing of value so far as information goes was obtained.

Delmas McFadden admitted to the police that he had been in the custody of the police on other occasions both in Morganza and also in California.

The three came into Bucks county several days ago and have worked in Doylestown and Quakertown and other communities where they collected considerable money.

The trio arrived here and began to solicit the business and professional men of Bristol for advertisements in the proposed directory to be known as "Bucks County Business and Professional Directory." It was to be printed, the men claimed, by a printer in a town near Bristol. They charged $1 each for the advertisements with the exception of the back page for which they charged $25. Cash was collected in many instances and in others checks were given and made payable to the "Bucks County Directory."

It was stated that 10,000 copies of the directory would be distributed mostly in the rural sections with 2,000 in Doylestown and 3,000 here. In the list of names of individuals and firms which had subscribed there were found many of prominence in Doylestown, Quakertown, Sellersville, Perkasie and other communities.

In some instances it was found that one of the men had used the title of "Dr."

"Doctor of what?" the police asked. "Doctor of salesmanship," was the curt reply.

The name of the printer who was to publish the directory was freely used and he was communicated with and found to be an innocent party to the deal. The men had called at the printer's office and asked for an estimate for printing such a book. Solicitation blanks were printed and the understanding was that the men were not to collect any money.

The men were questioned the entire evening by Chief Jones, McGee, County Detective Russo and Constable Crawford.

Police felt confident that the men were not in a position to carry out their promises to produce the directory and this appears to be correct as when they were asked which of three (Continued on Page 4)

Bristol To Be Very Well Represented at Inaugural

Bristol will be very well represented at the inauguration ceremonies in Washington tomorrow when Franklin Delano Roosevelt will take the oath of office as President of the United States.

A delegation of about 12 members of Robert W. Bracken Post, American Legion, will spend the day in the capital city, and take part in the parade.

Among those leaving today for Washington are: Miss Eleanor Clements, who will meet a party of friends from Culpepper, Va.; William Lynn and sons William and Joseph, 1248 Radcliffe street; William Gratz and Michael Miskin, Harriman Park; Basil Pappajian, Mill street. W. Harry King is also in Washington and will witness the ceremonies. Mrs. Nellie Poulette, Market street, left Wednesday for Washington, where she will visit Mrs. Borden for several days.

All parts of Bucks County will be represented at the ceremonies, it is believed, despite the fact that the Bucks County Democratic Club will not be officially represented. From Doylestown, Justice of the Peace and Mrs. Irvin M. James, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry LeRoy Kister will make the trip. Five from Perkasie will also go, under leadership of William H. Mood. Charles S. Doyle and four others from South Langhorne, will make the journey likewise.

FRIDAY, MARCH 3, 1933

MORE DISCREET

Witness a little drama. There is a marked-down sale of men's clothes. Every suit is a bargain, and the store is filled with people who wish to buy—nearly all of them men.

A few men stand near the counters, making selections. Many more stand behind them, impatient but well-mannered, awaiting their turn. Anyone of them had rather miss a bargain than make a scene.

A dozen or more large women are present, having in tow husbands or sons. These dear creatures, impatient of delay, calmly plough through the crowds of waiting men, seize piles of garments and return in triumph to their male property. If they need a clerk to answer questions, they seize one by the arm as he scurries past.

In short, they get service and get it promptly while mere men cool their heels.

An unthinking observer would say: "These women are superior to men. They get what they want."

The truth is that if any man should begin to elbow his fellows aside in complete disregard of the rules of fairness and good sportsmanship somebody would disarrange his face. Men are courteous to one another because courtesy is the first part of discretion.

A woman can, in the language of our day, get away with murder—solely because she is a woman—solely because men of our day, almost without exception, aspire to be gentlemen, and the bedrock of gentility is chivalry.

Chivalry is a ball and chain in competition. Where women are concerned, any man who is reasonably decent pulls his punches.

Eventually women may boss the world by reason of sheer merit. But until chivalry is dead they won't get a chance to show what they can do in a fair fight.

STORED WEALTH

This may be one of the worst depressions in number of unemployed the country has ever experienced and it is probably the longest, and yet in some respects it has stood up better than during past economic eruptions. All is not lost.

Not when the people put $42,000,000 into postal savings and other millions into other savings institutions during the worst year of the depression.

Not when postal savings total $942,540,203 and all forms of savings run well over $40,000,000,000.

These are not the savings of a few millionaires nor the hoardings of a few big banks. They are the savings of millions of men, women and children from the middle and lower classes. And a large part of the vast total has been saved in the midst of hard times. Postal savings have tripled in two years and deposits in mutual savings banks have increased considerably.

The employed millions are saving more money than the whole country saved back when everybody had a job and most everybody had more money than ever before. Apparently the old spendthrift and gambling days are over, for the duration of the depression at least.

The happiest man is the one who has reconciled himself to his own bad habits.

Modern Bridge Will Be Built at Upper Black Eddy

UPPER BLACK EDDY, Mar. 3.—Bids will soon be sought for the construction of a steel superstructure for the bridge spanning the Delaware River from Milford to here.

The work will be done under direction of the Joint Commission for Elimination of Toll Bridges. Governor Moore has approved the project from the New Jersey authorities and Pennsylvania gave its consent for the improvement. It is estimated the work will cost approximately $120,000. Plans and specifications are now being furthered under the direction of Louis Focht, superintendent and engineer of the joint commission. He will also direct the work.

The abutments and piers of the present bridge at the point in question will be used. However the new superstructure will be modern of steel, and will provide, in addition to the traffic ways a sidewalk for pedestrians. The structure will be of sufficient strength to permit the heaviest loads permissible under the law.

The present bridge is of the old-fashioned wooden type and covered.

SYNOPSIS

Tom Leach, pirate terror of the Spanish Main, and master of the dread "Black Swan," captures the merchant vessel "The Centaur," bound for England, and kills the captain and crew. Passengers aboard the "Centaur" are Priscilla Harradine, lovely, young daughter of the late Captain-General of the Leeward Isles, Major Sands, her father's elderly aide, who hopes to win her hand and fortune, and the handsome young Frenchman, Charles de Bernis, former lieutenant of the buccaneer, Henry Morgan. The latter reformed and is commissioned by the King of England to rid the seas of pirates. He has tried in vain to capture the elusive Leach. De Bernis, known to Leach of old, protects Priscilla by introducing her as his wife, and the Major, as his brother-in-law. He holds Leach at bay with a promise of great wealth in the form of a Spanish plate fleet scheduled to sail shortly. It is agreed that De Bernis will take command of the "Centaur" and lead Leach to the treasure. Despite the fact that he owes his life to De Bernis, Major Sands is hostile towards the Frenchman. "The Black Swan" is beached at Albuquerque Keys where the work of cleaning her hull is begun preparatory for the coming encounter with the Spaniards. Leach and his men live in thatched huts on the shore, but De Bernis and his party stay aboard the "Centaur" at anchor nearby. Leach's lieutenants, suspicious of De Bernis' friendly attitude toward his men, warn their leader that the Frenchman may sail off and capture the treasure himself, leaving them stranded. To prevent this, Leach orders De Bernis and all hands ashore. Priscilla expresses her gratitude for the comfortable quarters De Bernis has arranged for her.

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

Nor was de Bernis, it appeared, the only one solicitous for her. Soon after her arrival, Tom Leach came to assure himself that all that was possible had been done for her comfort. He had assumed an ingratiating manner; he was all apologies for any inconvenience she might suffer in this change of quarters, and all solicitude to reduce this as far as might be possible. He ordered various odds and ends to be brought from among the landed furniture of the Black Swan, and desired her to use all frankness in telling him of anything further that might be done for her well-being. He lingered on in amiable, jocular talk awhile with her and with de Bernis, and the Major who were in attendance, and finally went off with smirking expressions of good-will.

De Bernis, who had remained impassive, looked at the Major whose bearing throughout had suggested that Tom Leach emitted an offensive smell.

"Timeo Danaos et dona ferentes," ("I fear Greeks bearing gifts") he murmured.

"Ye know I don't speak French," said the Major irritably, and he wondered why Miss Priscilla laughed.

But there were worse vexations in store for Major Sands. When they came to retire that night, the Major asked Monsieur de Bernis what provisions he had made for sleeping-quarters for himself. There was a moment's pause before the Frenchman answered him.

"It follows naturally, sir, that I share those prepared for my wife."

The Major made a gurgling noise in his throat, as he swung to confront the Frenchman squarely.

"What security do you imagine the lady would enjoy if it were shown that she is not my wife? You have eyes, I suppose, and you saw the way Tom Leach looked at her when he came smirking round her here this evening with his loathsome affability."

"Stab me!" he got out at last, in a voice thick with passion. "And what, pray, is there to choose between Tom Leach and you?"

The Major tugged at his neck-cloth. He felt as if he were choking.

"Stab me!" he got out at last, in a voice thick with passion. "And what, pray, is there to choose between Tom Leach and you?"

Monsieur de Bernis sucked in his breath quite audibly. His face showed white in the gloom. "Runs your mind so?" he said at last. "But what a poor, lame mind it is with which to run at conclusions! I wonder whether it will bear you in the end." He uttered a short laugh. "If I were what you are supposing, if my aims were such as you flatter me by deeming them, your carcase, my dear Bartholomew, would by now be feeding the crayfish in that lagoon. Let the thought give you assurance of my honesty. Good-night!"

He was turning away when the Major caught him by the sleeve.

"I beg your pardon, de Bernis. Stab me! I should have seen that without being told." Convinced by the other's clear argument, it was out of the depth of his relief that contrition rose, "I've done you a monstrous wrong, blimey! I admit it frankly."

"Pshaw!" said de Bernis, and he moved off.

Miss Priscilla's hut had not been supplied with a door, this being deemed unnecessary. In its place, and to act as a curtain, Pierre had hung across the entrance a heavy rug which entirely screened the interior. From between the logs composing the walls the light was still gleaming when presently de Bernis approached it, having left his doubt with Pierre and carrying now a cloak and a pillow which his servant had given him.

He went down on one knee before the entrance, to dig a hole in the fine sand.

"Who is there?" came Priscilla's voice from beyond the curtaining rugs.

"It is I," de Bernis answered. "You have no cause for alarm. I shall be on guard. Sleep in peace."

HAWKS NOSE OUT IN GAME WITH ST. ANN'S

After trailing for three quarters of the game, the Hawks gave a sudden spurt in the last period to nose out the St. Ann's Aces, 30-28 in the preliminary game at the Italian Mutual Aid Hall last night.

The "Saints" held a 25-19 lead at the opening of the fatal period and seemed headed for a victory but the Hawks rallied to score eleven points and also tightened their defense enough to hold the Purple and Gold to three points to nose out the losers by two points.

It was the work of Harry Kendig and a new-comer of the Hawks' team, "Willie" Franks that enabled the Hawks to capture the fray. Thanks to some passing by Franks, Kendig scored ten points in the second half. Franks scored six.

Pleo was the star of the St. Ann's team with seven points. Dorsey, Tulio, and Britton had six each.

SPORT SHOTS by Maxwell Gordon

DO YOU KNOW THAT... Howard Eastwood, the prosecutor of Burlington county, and at this time conducting the investigation in the nationally-known Roberts-Wilson murder case... was a baseball player in his younger days?

Mr. Eastwood was the pitcher for the Burlington team at the time Wilmer Black of Langhorne, former Bristol player, was catching for the same club... we understand they formed a great battery.

According to the veteran Mr. Black, who is as enthusiastic about baseball today as he was when he played on the local teams with John Coleman, "Doc" Potts and the other former greats... Eastwood was a great student of baseball and a most successful pitcher.

"Howard Eastwood's pitching was always a feature of the game, his easy graceful movements and swing, his study on the batter, perhaps a tight score, men on bases, all those things had to be weighed before Eastwood would make a delivery," explained Mr. Black in discussing his former team mate... "It was a pleasure to work with a student player like him."

"Joe" and "Sid" Sweeney, sons of Mrs. Mantis Sweeney of Buckley street formed the battery for the varsity baseball team while they were students at Villa-Nova College a few years ago.

Y. M. A. EASILY WINS BASKETBALL TITLE

(By T. M. Juno)

Scoring at will, the Young Men's Association basketball team won the championship of the Bristol Basketball League last night on the Italian Mutual Aid floor, defeating the Third Ward A. C., 56-26.

It was the second straight victory for the Y's in the playoff series and for their efforts they will receive the large trophy donated to the local circuit by Kline's Sporting Goods Store, Trenton, N. J. The runner-up trophy donated by Dr. Fred Lefkowitz, of Croydon, will be awarded to the Third Ward team.

From the first quarter on, the score was one-sided. The Y. M. A. quintet was working its best form of the season and steadily increased its lead until the Warders lost all hopes and folded up tightly. The only time the Pikers had a chance for the game was in the first quarter and in the third period when Morgan scored seven points to come within six of the Y. M. A. total.

However, this seemed to be the signal for the Radcliffe street boys to get started, and from then on everything the Y's shot seemed to go right through the net. Twenty-five points in the first quarter alone when all the cogs of the Y. M. A. scoring machine were working in right form.

Every player on the Y. M. A. team shared in the scoring of field goals and fouls. Even "Bill" Hardy and "Al" Bauer, who usually spend their time at stationary guarding and do all the passing to the forwards and center, scored freely. Hardy counted six points while Bauer was good for eight.

The Y's shooting aces, Bailey, Lawrence and Fegley, accounted for 42 points. Fegley was good for seventeen; Bailey, fifteen; and Lawrence, ten. The entire four field goals credited to Lawrence were long shots from past the foul territory and cleared the net without touching the rims of the basket. Fegley and Bailey were scoring them from under the basket.

The only bright light on the Third Ward side of the story was the playing of "Hen" Morgan. Morgan scored fourteen points, more than one-half of the losers' total. He was credited with several assists and then as a climax brought the entire crowd to its feet by a fast dribbling exhibition in the third period when he dribbled by four Y. M. A. players to score from under the net.

The winners also were good shots from the foul line, hitting the net sixteen times in twenty-two chances. The Pikers scored twelve times in the same number of chances. "Dates" Fegley was the best foul shooter with seven out of nine tries. Morgan has six in ten tries. Lawrence made two out of two to bring his total of the series to twelve out of thirteen tries.

SOLD LIQUOR IN JAIL

Norristown, Mar. 3.—Being jailed in the Montgomery County Prison Farm at Eaglesville has been something like a "mootman's holiday" for a Norristown bootlegger, it was revealed by police today. Instead of finding his imprisonment a detriment to business, the bootlegger picked up many customers among other inmates, police declared. Supplied with an assortment of liquor by outside aides, he conducted a thriving business, it was disclosed.

Last night, however, a quiet investigation by prison authorities bore fruit.

During the cold weather extraordinary care is taken of these plants. Fresh pine branches are placed as a blanket over each bush.

"Doorn loves and lives for the Kaiser," I was told.

There is no doubt of the popularity of the old ex-sovereign in this little village. Whatever prosperity it possesses today it owes to him. It never was known as a summer resort before he came, although some Dutch families did visit Doorn at times from Amsterdam or The Hague. Tourists and newspaper correspondents never bothered to stop here. Now they do.

Doorn residents tell how the ex-king often may be seen strolling along the highways, always watched by a couple of bodyguards in plainclothes and usually accompanied by his adjutant and doctor. The ex-king has become an accustomed guest. When people pass they take off their hats and he nods, or lifts his hat to them. Children do not follow him any more than anybody else. To them he is an old man taking a walk.

The Crown Prince is not so popular. He is regarded as an intriguer. He would take the ex-king away from Doorn. He would bring him back to Germany if he could. That is their belief. Philosophically the sturdy Dutchmen say they wish the ex-sovereign all the best of luck, although his return to Germany would mark a sharp decline in their prosperity.

Princess Hermine, the ex-king's consort, is a familiar figure at Doorn, too. She stops at the shops and chats, although careful to avoid any but non-committal remarks. She has aged a little since she came, the villagers say. Her hair is a little gray now, but on the whole they proudly admit that her appearance has improved during her stay. Her dresses are more tastefully selected.

But in all respects the Dutch people at Doorn live up to their reputation for placid characters, not easily ruffled or enthused. The ex-king can live peacefully at Doorn without being followed by a host of hero-worshippers and the curious, as would be the case almost anywhere except in a Dutch village.

nue, Morrisville. His body arrived here yesterday afternoon and was taken to the Antrobus homestead at Lurgan, above Bowman's Hill, on the River Road, near New Hope.

Attention of the Texas police has been centered on the mystery since the man's body was found. Lacking clues, the authorities are holding two officers of the tanker and have repeatedly questioned members of the crew.

Failure of Antrobus to appear on deck caused members of the crew to batter down the door of his cabin. Then they made the gruesome discovery. Search of the room failed to reveal a gun. A steel-jacketed 32-calibre bullet was found on a settee and a shell from the same calibre bullet was discovered on the floor. Members of the crew say they heard no shot and also insisted that no strangers were on board the vessel, which was docked at Port Arthur.

One theory was advanced and that was that Antrobus shot himself and died after throwing the weapon out the porthole. This was exploded by investigating authorities who explained that the medical examiner had reported death instantaneous.

Antrobus was a World-War veteran, being a member of Willet-Sanford Post, of Morrisville. He held membership in the Port Arthur Masonic Lodge, the Square Club of New York City, Fleet Reserve Association and the Farm and Mechanic Association of Wycombe.

Besides his brother, Howard, a sister and four other brothers survive. They are Miss Florence Antrobus, of Philadelphia, and Charles, William, Albert and Frederick Antrobus.

The Legion post will conduct services at the Lurgan residence this evening, at which time friends may call. Funeral will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The Rev. Walter Humphrey will officiate. Burial will be in the Thompson Memorial Cemetery, Brownsburg.

Crowell Resigns As Master of Pomona

Litter, continued Mr. Greenwalt, presents the problem of moisture. He recommends the use of ground corn cobs to be very satisfactory and economical. These, he said, will keep the floor dry. He advised raising chickens on ground where there had been none for at least three years. This, he said, avoids disease. If the ground is restricted, the chicks should be raised on close wire mesh floors.

In reference to clean management Mr. Greenwalt said: "Keep your neighbors out of your brooder houses because they can easily bring disease to your chickens."

Mr. Greenwalt explained that coccidiosis is the most troublesome disease among chickens. The present form which is chronic is difficult to identify, slow to appear and difficult to cure. It is caused by a parasite in the intestinal tract and chickens after having suffered from this disease never are strong. The 40 per cent milk mash for the chicks is the best thing to prevent the disease. Advised treatments of this disease, said Mr. Greenwalt, often prove poor and at the same time they are expensive.

The brooder houses should be kept dry and they should be cleaned every four or five days. There is no 100 per cent cure for worms. Birds should be culled closely and the poor ones should be kept from the good ones.

The egg auction at Doylestown, said Mr. Greenwalt, has taught the poultrymen very much that is of value. It is no trouble to get people to gather eggs four or five times a day during the Summer, but people are just beginning to realize the importance of gathering the eggs just as often during the Winter. An egg, although not badly frozen, will deteriorate very rapidly after having been partially frozen and this is readily detected by the handler.

Marcus Doan, a member of Edgewood Grange, Woodside, presented a lengthy paper on agricultural economics. Farmers, he said, pay too much for necessary materials and receive too little for their products. They must eliminate all waste and must put to use only high class prolific certified seed which is disease resistant.

The farmer must eradicate disease and use the best known cultural methods. He must build up high producing herds and flocks and use sanitary housing and feeding and good care. The big problem is distribution.

"We farmers," said Mr. Doan, "should cater to the needs of the home market, co-operate in marketing, lend moral support to farm associations and buy through co-operative associations. The farmer has become an economical and prolific producer and has created a surplus which the home market cannot carry."

In reference to taxes Mr. Doan explained that in 1913 six and one-half per cent of the national income went for taxes, but now 22½ per cent of the national income is devoted to taxes. Today, said Mr. Doan, the farmer's dollar will purchase 56 per cent of the amount it could in 1913 but at the same time he pays 106 per cent of what he paid for his equipment in 1913. His taxation has increased 250 per cent.

Mr. Doan said: "We need to equalize our taxation. Originally the land was the great wealth in this country. Today intangible property comprises the great wealth and it must be made to pay its just share of the taxes."

Another speaker during the literary hour was Miss Margaret R. Slack, a member of Pineville Grange, who spoke on "Wild flowers we should take into the garden."

Among the flowers she recommended for this purpose included the blood root, Spring beauty, violets, meadow sweet, blue bells, the cardinal flower which may be grown from seed, the Colorado columbine, butterfly weed, false dragon head and shooting star.

Miss Slack explained that upon application to the Wild Flower Preservation Society in Washington, D. C., information and seeds will be forwarded.

Bringing her talk to a close, Miss Slack said the ground for these wild flowers must be similar in nature to that from which the plants have been removed in their native haunts. Orchids can be grown in gardens under the proper conditions, but they do not transplant well for the amateur. Miss Slack also went into detail in giving directions for the growing of arbutus from seed.

Other numbers during the lecturer's hour included readings by Mrs. Eva K. Preston, Carversville Grange; reading, "Thoughts of a Dakota Farmer," Liddle Wilson, Delaware Valley Grange; piano solos, Miss Helen Vasey, Tyro Hall Grange; and a reading, "The Dear, Dear Man," Mrs. Florence Dyer, of Philadelphia Grange.
